TCP is a connection-oriented protocol that ensures reliable delivery of data packets.
UDP is a connectionless protocol that favors speed without error checking.